

To the RUH hospital in the rain obediently wearing my mask

Obedient means 'complying or willing to comply with an order or request; submissive to another's authority. Example "a docile and obedient dog" The only reason I wear a mask is because in the hospital you have to. The staff are so thoroughly 'trained' that they will reprimand you on pain of losing their jobs.

So, its a rainy and miserable but warm day. I arrive early to enjoy the ever changing gallery of paintings and images in the corridors. I will let them speak for themselves.

My eye injection went well with a delightful doctor called Emma. I had after effects – bloodshot eyes and some pain – but I know it will return to normal within a few hours. This will have been my 36th injection. To save 'wear' on the eye they inject in different quadrants each time.

Bluepool Mary-Jane Evans

Family group – Tim Carroll

Extraction of the Cupcake William Rose

Alex;s Attic Tom Eddiott

Slight easing of restrictions

Flamingo Rosie Webb

An all-to common site in Bath (and everywhere come to that)

A steam in full flood in Wellow.